2015 Harmony Award

Desmond Cole

Freelance journalist, radio show host, activist and community worker Desmond Cole has brought attention to a diversity of social issues that includes racial profiling and immigration. Desmond's 2015 Toronto Life cover story "The Skin I'm In: I've been interrogated by police more than 50 Times - all because I'm black" started the conversation about the police carding system and has been front and center in the movement to abolish the practice.
